Prairie Farms and Hiland Dairy Honored with Multiple Awards at QCS Annual Conference

Collaboration Award and multiple Quality Awards recognize innovation, excellence, and shared purpose across the cooperative community

EDWARDSVILLE, IL — November 3, 2025 — Prairie Farms Dairy and Hiland Dairy were recognized for outstanding achievements at the 2025 QCS Annual Conference in Boston, Massachusetts, this past week, earning top honors for product excellence, collaboration, and industry leadership.

The two companies, in partnership with Rocket Products, received the prestigious QCS Collaboration Award for their joint Alex's Lemonade Stand Foundation (ALSF) Promotion, a charitable partnership benefiting childhood cancer research. The initiative united both brands under a shared mission to give back, combining consumer engagement with a heartfelt cause.

“Working with Rocket Products and our lemonades for this campaign was truly special,” said Matt McClelland, CEO and Executive Vice President of Prairie Farms Dairy. “We’re proud that this collaboration not only supported Alex’s Lemonade Stand Foundation’s mission, but also brought together our employees, customers, and communities in a meaningful way.”

“This partnership is a reflection of the cooperative spirit that defines our industry,” said Rick Beaman, President of Hiland Dairy. “When companies collaborate with a shared purpose, the impact extends far beyond business; it strengthens communities and lives.”

In addition to the Collaboration Award, Prairie Farms Dairy and Hiland Dairy earned several honors through the QCS Dairy Quality Excellence Program, which recognizes superior performance in product quality, food safety, and operational excellence.

Prairie Farms Dairy honorees included:

- 2025 Dairy Quality Award Winner and Weber Finalist – Olney, IL plant
- Merit of Excellence Awards – Fluid Milk at Anderson, IN; Hammond, LA; Jefferson City, MO; O’Fallon, IL; and Olney, IL
- Cultured Products Quality Winner – Quincy, IL
